TRACK 4.1

N: Listening, Unit 4, Page 48, B

F: When I first moved to Brighton what really impressed me was that I had all the (1) facilities that a city can offer with the seaside as an (2) added bonus. I was brought up in a small (3) fishing village in Ireland, so being near the sea is very important to me. I'd hate to live in a city further inland.

M: I know what you mean, but I feel that way about cities in general. They're just too (4) crowded and noisy. I much prefer the peace and quiet of the countryside to the (5) noise pollution and (6) stress of cities. I left my (7) childhood home - a little village - when I was twenty because there just wasn't any work there. I might have found a good job here in Brighton and everything, but I get really (8) homesick here.

F: Before I moved to Brighton I thought I'd be (9) stressed out all the time, you know, rushing from one place to another. But in fact, the pace of life is just right for me here. I feel I've got the (10) best of both worlds. The people here are very friendly too. And I like the fact that I've got to know people here from (11) all walks of life = from many different backgrounds.
